Charoen Pokphand Foods Public Company Limited (CP Foods) reaffirms its status as a global leader in sustainability, securing the top rank in the food products sector of the Dow Jones Sustainability Index (DJSI). Endorsed by S&P Global, the DJSI is acclaimed as the global standard for corporate sustainability performance benchmarks. CP Foods celebrates its ninth consecutive year in the Emerging Markets category, reflecting its unwavering commitment to sustainable practices. The company is steadfast in its dedication to food security and the protection of human rights, operating with a rigorous adherence to environmental, social, and governance (ESG) principles.

Prasit Boondoungprasert, CEO of CP Foods, highlighted the company's commitment to sustainability, which is manifested in its adherence to human rights across its entire value chain. This commitment extends from farmers and business partners to shareholders, investors, employees, and local communities. CP Foods serves as a beacon of innovation, continually advancing the development of nutritious and healthy food products through the integration of advanced technologies and efficient resource utilization. Embracing a circular economy model, the company operates business under the strategic 'Climate People and Food Security' framework, ensuring food security during both stable times and crises.

"CP Foods envisions being recognized as the "Sustainable Kitchen of the World," stated Mr. Prasit. The company embraces the sufficiency economy philosophy and is guided by the CP Group's "3 benefits" principle, inspired by Dhanin Chearavanont, CP Group's Senior Chairman. This approach focuses on the benefits of the country, people, and the company itself, propelling CP Foods in its mission to supply high-quality, safe, nutritious, and flavorful food to consumers globally.

The company is also committed to elevating food safety standards by innovating and integrating advanced technologies throughout its production chain, from animal feed and farming to food processing. CP Foods has launched the pioneering 'Thai Food: Mission to Space' project, aiming to achieve space-level food safety standards, marking a significant first for Thai food products.

Additionally, CP Foods is well-equipped to navigate transitions across all facets of its operations in response to the rapidly evolving landscape and forthcoming challenges. This preparation encompasses thorough organizational risk management, adherence to regulations, cybersecurity, responsible procurement practices, and the promotion of biodiversity. The company's human resources strategies are designed to cultivate a culture of engagement, expertise, and adaptability among its workforce, with a steadfast commitment to fairness, equality, and embracing diversity and inclusion.

CP Foods operates in 17 countries and exports food to over 40 countries, reaching more than 4,000 million people. The company's goal is to achieve Net-Zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050, being the first food producer to have its emission reduction targets, both short-term and long-term, scientifically validated and aligned with the Forest, Land, and Agriculture Guidance (FLAG) from The Science-Based Targets Initiative (SBTi).

As a Dow Jones Sustainability Index member for nine consecutive years, CP Foods has demonstrated its effectiveness in sustainable business practices, excelling in corporate governance, economic performance, environmental stewardship, and social responsibility. The company aspires to create sustainable value for the long term, growing steadily alongside all stakeholders, guided by its vision of being the sustainable "Kitchen of the World."

CPF Malaysia, a global investment subsidiary of Charoen Pokphand Foods Public Company Limited, recently garnered two prestigious accolades at the Malaysia Livestock Industry Awards 2023: the "Outstanding Breeder Farm" award and the "Most Innovative Breeder Farm" award. These awards highlight CPF Malaysia's dedication to elevating standards in the livestock industry and its commitment to improving consumer quality of life by ensuring the availability of innovative, high-quality food products in Malaysia.

Mr.Montree Srihamontree, President for Agro-Industrial Business at CPF Malaysia, expressed the company's pride in these achievements. He emphasized the significance of these awards in reinforcing their commitment to food security for Malaysian consumers, in line with the "3 Benefits to Sustainability" principle of the Charoen Pokphand Group. This approach prioritizes the benefits to the countries they operate in, the public, and the company, respectively.

The "Outstanding Broiler Chicken Farm" award was given to PK Agro-Industrial Products (M) Sdn. Bhd. for their commitment to animal welfare and producing high-quality, safe, and traceable meat products. This recognition highlights their responsibility towards all stakeholders, including consumers, farmers, communities, and the environment.

The "Outstanding Innovation in Pork Product Processing Process" award recognized excellence in pork production processes, integrating modern technology and innovations for improved efficiency and food safety. This includes employing digital technology for product traceability and enhancing consumer confidence.

CPF Malaysia is dedicated to sustainable business practices, aiming to provide quality, nutritious food that benefits the physical and mental health of Malaysian consumers. This contributes to food security and a better quality of life under their vision of being the sustainable "Kitchen of the World."

The Malaysia Livestock Industry Awards 2023, organized by the Department of Livestock Development and the Ministry of Agriculture and Food Sustainability, are a significant event in Malaysia, celebrating outstanding achievements in the livestock sector. The award covers 15 categories, including innovation, development, commercial success, and best practices, contributing to the sustainable growth and international reputation of Malaysia's livestock industry.

C.P. Vietnam has been named among the top 100 most sustainable manufacturing companies in the country.

CPV- Vice President Vu Anh Tuan receiving the award

The company (CPV) has succeeded in applying criteria based on the Corporate Sustainability Index (CSI) for production, processing, and doing business. It has built strategies to implement the UN's Sustainable Development Goals, pays attention to the communities in which it operates, and promotes environmental sustainability.

The Sustainable Companies Vietnam 2023 award ceremony on December 13 was held by the Vietnam Chamber of Commerce and Industry (VCCI) and Vietnam Business Council for Sustainable Development, with the participation of Tran Tuan Anh, Chairman of the Party Central Committee's Economic Commission, and leaders of ministries, agencies, and business associations.

"The accolade demonstrates our efforts to become sustainable in the vertical agro-industrial and food business with our feed-farm-food model," said CPV vice president Vu Anh Tuan.

Tuan said CPV would continue its efforts in this vein while complying with the legal provisions on environmental protection, reasonable energy use, circular economic models, and carbon emissions reductions. It also aims to plant 1.5 million trees across Vietnam.

CPV provides social benefits with a series of activities for the community, such as voluntary blood donations, medical examinations and treatments, the distribution of medicines to the poor, and a synergy housing project.

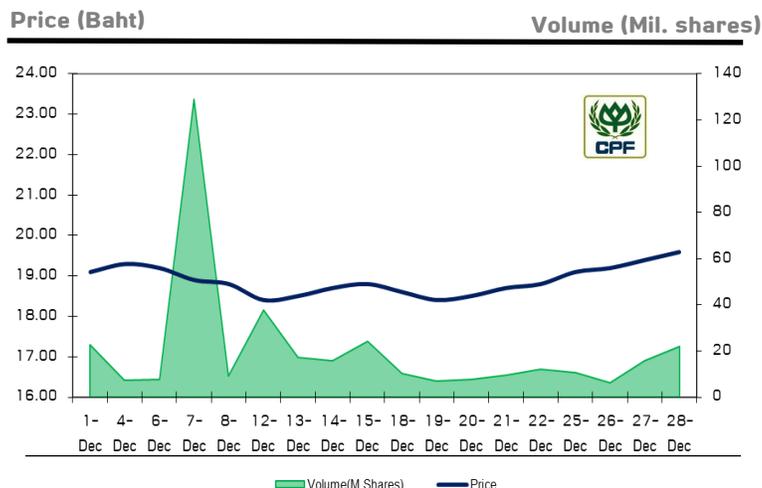

The company has been listed among the 10 most sustainable companies in the manufacturing category for three consecutive years, with continuous efforts from members at all levels within its production and business activities. It also supports the community and promotes greater environmental protection.

The CSI, which was built on sustainable development criteria in areas such as the economy, environment, and society, has been comprehensively updated in a clear direction for businesses to easily apply in all their manufacturing and business activities. Of the 130 indicators in the CSI for 2023, almost two-thirds are related to legal compliance requirements, while 37 per cent are sustainability indicators.

"These new points have contributed to affirming that the top 100 businesses honoured at the ceremony have been evaluated, appraised, and considered carefully and transparently," said VCCI chairman Pham Tan Cong.

Nearly 500 businesses registered to participate, of which nearly a quarter were new enterprises participating for the first time. Almost 150 applications were selected for independent scoring using online software, ensuring a transparent appraisal process.
